

Wild animals in winter

© iStock.com/lillitve

In the winter season, food is in short supply for capercaillie, roe deer, etc. Therefore many wild animals reduce their energy consumption and stay resting most of the time. An escape can weaken the animal or even lead to its death.

We say THANK YOU that you ...

- 1. stay on the trails, slopes and ski-tracks. This also applies to your dog.
- 2. are on tour only during daytime and avoid nighttime.
- 3. respect protected areas such as nature or game reserves.

On tour with TOURING SKIS OR SNOWSHOES?

Please stay in the open landscape and keep a distance from the edge of the forest. In the woods strictly stay on the marked routes.

To learn more:
www.bewusstWild.de

Auerhuhn im
Schwarzwald

Naturpark
Südschwarzwald

